Disclaimers: You will have weekly due dates for your assignments turned in via email. Please make sure you pay attention and learn how to use this tool. Each specific teacher will give you the non-negotiable due date for your class. If you are having trouble, please make appointments during the class period to meet with your teacher for more individualized and direct instruction. This should be a constant work in progress. You must bring in all of your materials for each class period. More requirements will be provided at a later date.
