

Menu Three

CHOOSE YOUR OWN ADVENTURE!

I choose this video:

I choose this SCHOLARLY
article:

I choose this
short story:

I choose this song:

I choose this poem:

"We need more humanity, more care, more love. There are those who expect a political system to produce that; and others who expect the love to produce the system. My own faith is that the truth of the future lies between the two and we shall behave humanly and a bit humanely, stumbling along, haphazardly generous and gallant, foolishly and meanly wise until the rape of our planet is seen to be the preposterous folly that it is."

WILLIAM GOLDING,
Nobel Lecture, Dec. 7, 1983

CHAPTERS 7-12 GUIDING WORD:

Chaos!!!

For this last menu item, you are on your own. YOU are to pick your own menu items. Remember, you will have three menu items, and each item MUST come from a different category.

We expect you to find your resources. If you are struggling, some good places to start are:

- google.scholar
- jstor (found at mel.org's database option)
- New York Times
- doaj.org
- Time

These are starting points, ladies and gentlemen. You must submit this sheet to your teacher. The due dates are as follows:

Menu Selections

Journals

Final Paper

